

BACHELOR'S DEGREE SUPPLEMENTAL APPLICATION FOR ADMISSION IN HEALTH SERVICE MANAGEMENT 2022-2023

The Health Services Management program uses an innovative, instructional approach specifically designed to prepare students to manage the business and operational side of healthcare delivery and related industries. This approach emphasizes the development of “soft” (interpersonal) and “hard” (functional) skills necessary to achieve professional success. This is not a writing intensive program. Instead, we focus on preparing students for the real-world scenarios facing Health Services Managers. This is accomplished largely through case studies. As opposed to traditional term papers, book reports, and annotated bibliographies, we require students to produce professional deliverables consistent with that typically expected in industry, such as informal and formal business correspondence, action plans, root cause analyses, contingency plans, white papers, and the like. The emphasis is not on the quantity, but rather the quality of the submissions. All HSM courses are delivered entirely online and leverage a collaborative meeting platform to conduct team meetings, deliver presentations, and interact in real time with industry leaders. We employ an 8-week term format as opposed to a traditional 16-week semester for the 3000 and 4000 level courses. This accelerated model allows students to focus on fewer courses while becoming more immersed in the discipline. In order to aid students in judging the amount of time necessary to fulfill course requirements, the HSM courses employ a standardized structure that balances one’s individual effort with that of his or her team. The program welcomes students from a wide array of professional backgrounds and academic preparation and is geared to non-traditional, working adults. Finally, this program permits qualified HSM students to earn up to 12 semesters hours of graduate coursework that can be concurrently applied to your undergraduate degree and give you up to a one-year head start on your graduate studies. <https://vimeo.com/709354136>

Requirements:

Admission applications will be accepted for review from all individuals who meet the following requirements:

1. College level skills in reading, writing, and mathematics as evidenced by approved placement testing (TSI Complete) or previous college-level coursework.
2. Attained junior standing, defined as having earned at least 60 college level semester hours from a regionally accredited college or university.
3. Within approximately 18 semester hours of completing the lower division coursework. If you are taking courses to fulfill this requirement prior to the term in which you wish to begin the bachelor’s program, please note the classes in which you are enrolled or plan to enroll below.

Admission to the Bachelor’s program is based on such factors as grade point average (GPA), the lower division coursework you’ve completed, as well as the content in your personal statement. Applications are to be reviewed by the BAT Admissions Committee and recommended to the Vice President of Academic and Student Affairs.
